Eleven of the 17 COMOR targets on this mission were covered including six for base line coverage. In addition, 28 other COMOR targets were photographed with varying results from poor to good due to cloud cover. 13 additional targets were also covered for a grand total of 52. There were five more targets overflowed but they were completely obscured by clouds. Of particular interest was a photograph of the Nanhai Air Field/ Canton SA-2 site. Apparently, it is still in an operational configuration. Weather was worse than briefed in the northern portion of the route which was Category IV and V predominately. The western and southern areas were Category I. The south and east areas were varying Category II and III.
